Alternate Safeguarding Leaders

If staff members or visitors have concerns about a child they should raise these with a safeguarding leader or Alternate Safeguarding Leader. This includes vulnerability to radicalisation, mental health and wellbeing, as well as situations of abuse which may involve staff members.

However, if, at any point, there is a risk of immediate serious harm to a child a referral should be made to children's social care immediately. Anybody can make a referral. If the child's situation does not appear to be improving the staff member with concerns should press for re-consideration. Concerns should always lead to help for the child at some point.
